

Birds Eye View – What Bird are you?

To find out which bird you are, read each statement and tick which personality traits are most like you. Leave the box empty if the statement doesn't apply to you.

I am very energetic
I love water – swimming, splashing, long showers
I am known for my intelligence
I am often the life of the party
I can be a bit chatty and noisy
I am a bit of a homebody
I like to get up early
I'll eat practically anything
I like to take time to think about things before making a decision
I love to sing
People think I am a bit of a joker
I love a good cuddle
I like to do the right thing
I absolutely love life
People think I am resilient
I am very protective of my family
I like hanging out by myself
I am very inquisitive
It doesn't take long for me to get bored
I startle easily
I am athletic and agile
I have a small group of friends and we are very close
I like to look good
I have a large group of friends
I am very resourceful
I am good at adapting to different circumstances
I love to go out, but I love to come home
I take opportunities when they come my way
I am loyal to friends and family
I am playful
I am very social
People might say I have a bit of an attitude
I am a private person
I like to think I am charming
I love to lie in the sun
I like to travel
Total Tally
Bird	A	B	C	D	E	F

Add the number of ticks in each column and write the total number in the Total Tally section. The highest score shows which bird personality most relates to yours. Flip over the page to see which bird you are most like.

If your highest score was bird A, your dominant bird personality is the Cockatoo:

Loud and Lively

The Cockatoo is the life of the party, always bringing energy and excitement to any gathering. A bit of a talker, this bird loves to chat and socialize, often hanging out with a large group of friends. Despite its outgoing personality, the Cockatoo doesn't like to travel much, preferring familiar surroundings. Highly intelligent and playful, it thrives on being around stimulating people and things but can get bored easily. With a spicy attitude, it loves to push boundaries and explore new experiences. Affectionate and cuddly, the Cockatoo is loyal to its companions and dislikes being on its own.

If your highest score was bird B your dominant bird personality is the Galah:

A bit of joker who loves life

The Galah is quite athletic and agile, moving with impressive grace and speed. An early riser, it starts its day with boundless energy and enthusiasm. Very social, the Galah enjoys interacting with others but always likes to return to its own space. It is protective of its privacy, it values its personal space but remains very close to its family. With a zest for life, this bird is extremely energetic and loves to have fun, often being a bit of a joker. A true food lover, the Galah is always on the lookout for delicious treats.

If your highest score was bird C your dominant bird personality is the White-faced Heron:

Water loving and Adventurous

The White-faced Heron moves gracefully, often seen gliding effortlessly over water. With a deep love for aquatic environments, it spends much of its time near rivers, lakes, and wetlands. This heron enjoys its own company, often found alone, taking its time to do things with careful consideration. Known for being opportunistic, it seizes chances as they come, showcasing its adaptability in various situations. A bit of an adventurer, the White-faced Heron likes to travel, making the most of its surroundings.

If your highest score was bird D your dominant bird personality is the Magpie:

Intelligent and Protective

The Magpie is an extremely intelligent bird, known for its remarkable problem-solving skills and adaptability. A true homebody, it often stays close to its territory and is very protective of its family, ensuring their safety at all times. Magpies enjoy playful activities, including play fighting with their peers. They love to sunbake, often seen basking in the sunlight. With a beautiful singing voice, they fill the air with their melodious songs. Resourceful and playful, Magpies are loyal to the people they know, forming strong bonds with those they trust.

If your highest score was bird E your dominant bird personality is the Native Crested Pigeon:

Sociable and Flighty

The Native Crested Pigeon is a resilient bird, known for its ability to adapt and thrive in various environments. Loyal to its friends, this pigeon forms strong social bonds and enjoys the company of its flock. A true homebody, it often stays close to familiar surroundings but can be a bit flighty when startled. Highly social, these pigeons engage in frequent interactions with their fellow flock, making them a lively presence.

If your highest score was bird F your dominant bird personality is the Crimson Rosella:

Sweet and playful

The Crimson Rosella is a vibrant and social bird, often seen in the company of a close-knit group of friends. Known for their inquisitive nature, these birds are always exploring their surroundings with keen interest. They have a charming temperament, well-behaved and intelligent. With boundless energy, they are constantly on the move, engaging in playful activities. Loyal to their friends and family, Crimson Rosellas form strong bonds and are dedicated to their flock. They also take great pride in their appearance, showcasing their stunning plumage with elegance.