KINGSTON ARTS PRECINCT SUCCESSFUL TENDERER ANNOUNCED

The vision to establish Canberra's new visual arts destination is a step closer to realisation after the announcement of the successful tenderer to develop the Kingston Arts Precinct. A consortium of Canberra developer Geocon, architects Fender Katsalidis, and urban-design firm Oculus was successful in the two-stage process to select the developer for the site adjacent to Canberra Glassworks.

The development of the precinct is anticipated to be a 10 year program, enabling the maintenance of parking on-site over the course of construction and the continued operation of the Glassworks, Brodburger, and the Old Bus Depot Markets. The heritage elements of the site are a core consideration of the design of the precinct, and the developer is required to comply with all the provisions of the Heritage Registration. The development will result in approx 9,000m² of dedicated arts facilities as well as commercial and residential spaces.

The ACT Government will now work with the developers and the arts community to finalise concept designs and arts functional requirements that will meet users' needs and stand the test of time. The area has long been envisioned as a visual arts hub. Canberra Contemporary Art Space, Craft ACT, Photo Access, Art SoundFM, M16 (including ASOC, CAW, Hands-on, Studio-MAP and the resident artists of M16) and the Canberra Potters' Society are all anticipated to have a presence in the Precinct.

TOM ROWNEY ZELJKO MARKOV

A JOINT EXHIBITION

JOINT EXHIBITION AT CANBERRA GLASSWORKS – TOM ROWNEY AND ZELJKO MARKOV

Canberra Glassworks is holding a joint exhibition of glass works by Tom Rowney and furniture by Zeljko Markov from 5 April to 28 May 2017. The exhibition explores concepts of highly-skilled making, form, finish, and thought. Rowney and Markov are two great artists whose skills and sensibility make them frontrunners in the production of new design classics.

There is an opening event Thursday 6 April 2017 at 6pm and a gallery floor talk Saturday 29 April 2017 at 2pm. Visit www.canberraglassworks.com for more info.

KINGSTON STORYBOARDS

A recent safety check of the Kingston Storyboards along Wentworth Avenue confirmed that the hoarding was weathered and had been damaged beyond repair. The hoarding was removed in February to protect community safety, and will not be relocated.

The storyboards detailed the history of the Kingston Foreshore site and the community that grew around it through photos and text. The storyboards drew on the memories and stories of local people as well as official histories and collections. The LDA has produced a book of the Kingston Storyboards that the Canberra Glassworks has kindly offered to make accessible for continuing public enjoyment. The storyboards can also be viewed on the LDA website at

GREVILLEA PARK BOAT SHED

The Land Development Agency is nearing completion of a new purpose-built rowing facility in Grevillea Park on the northern foreshore of the East Basin of Lake Burley Griffin.

Grevillea Park is opposite the Jerrabomberra Wetlands, approximately three kilometres from Canberra City and Parliament House. It is accessed from Morshead Drive and Parkes Way and is linked to other areas around the lake via a pedestrian/cycle path network. The area is a popular location for people who like to take advantage of some of the great things Lake Burley Griffin has to offer including fishing, rowing, and kayaking, and has good access to facilities like walking and bike paths, a boat ramp, and parking.

Capital Lakes Rowing Club (currently tenants at Kingston Foreshore) will relocate to the new Grevillea Park Rowing Facility on its completion.
